Exclusive Statement To iiSpark"

2 SPARK, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 20. 1962 WHAT PRICE T HE RULE OF LAW?

IN his atiidavit replying to Mrs. Sonia Buntingls application to have her house arrest order set aside, the Minister of Justice, Mr. Vorster, said that the fact that her name was on the list of named Communists was in itself suHiCient reason for her to be placed under house arrest. .

This is a shocking thing for the Minister to have said, and shows that the infliction of house arrest on the victims is based largely on political prejudice and vengefulness, and has little to do with the alleged prevention of crime and the security of the Republic.

The list of named persons was drawn up by the liquidator after the suppression of the Communist Party in 1950. On it are the names of people who were alleged to have been members or active supporters of the Communist Party before it was declared illegal-in other words, when it was perfectly legal to do so.

The fact that a persons name is still on the list, Vorster argues, means that he is still an active Communist, because he had the opportunity of having his name taken off the list. If he failed to apply for his name to be removed, it means that he is still a Communist at heart, and maybe an underground Communist to boot.

A cursory examination of the list will show that this argument is nonsensical. First of all, some of the names belong to people who are dead, some to people who have recanted and joined the ranks of the anti-Communists, some to people who never had the remotest connection with the Communist Party, as revealed by the sad case of Mr. Sam Goldberg. Of those who remain, 50 per cent or more have disappeared from political view, are no longer interested in politics and either didnt know of Vorsteris offer or just couldntt be bothered to do anything about it.

As an indication of present political ildangerousnessfi therefore, the list is completely valueless. Yet Vorster says it is good enough to justify house arrest, and many of the victims may now be locked up in their homes, deprived of their liberty, for no other reason than that their names appear on this meaningless list.

For ourselves we dont believe that listing by itself is an adequate reason for imposing house arrest, and the proof that Vorster doesn't believe so either is the fact that Helen Joseph and Walter Sisulu, neither of whose names are on the list, are also under house arrest. Yet we have no doubt that, if necessary, the Minister could find lireasonsi, for taking action against them as well.

Actually, the Minister doesnt need reasons, since he only has to satisfy himself, whereafter no court of law may interfere. The 16:11 reason for house arrest is not that your name is on a list or that you have committed any crime but that Vorster finds your opposition to his policies inconvenient and will use any of his available powers to crush you if he can.

You donit have to be listed, you donit have to be a Communist, you donit have to commit any crime or do anything to qualify for house arrest. You just have to annoy Vorster and his Special Branch and you are liable to have action taken against you.

Today the political opposition is at the mercy of the bureaucrats and the tyrants. The courts are deliberately excluded. The so-Et iled rule of law is dead. We enter the era of naked dictatorst in which might is right and morality and justice are subordinated to the needs of survival of the White supremacists. THE South African ruling clique is putting up its last defences. It canit be long now before they are battered down by an angry people determined to be free. "

SPARK, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1962 3 Matanzima Constitution Rammed Through Strong-arm tactic: carry the day From Brian Somana UMTATA. AGAINST a background of violent conflict between the police and an armed detachment of the people both in the Transkei and on its border at Oueenstown, the Transkei constitution was rammed through the Territorial Authority by Kaiser Matanzima, with the help of Government othcials. Strong opposition to the constitution was registered by Chief Sabata Dalindyebo, head of the Transkeils most powerful tribe the Abatembu, the Pondo Chief Tutor Ndamase, Chief Amandli and Chief Mazeke of Embolaud, with Chief Poto in the background. But the strong-arm tactics of the Government carried the day. On the first day only one of the draft bills falling into four sections was discussed. Things became so bad that Chief Kaiser Matanzima angrily told members: lsIt is clear that some people want to stop proceedings so that they can remain here for a month? ' POLICE PRECAUTIONS Outside the building police had taken precautions against a 05sible demonstration and t ere reminded terms of the Law Amendment (Sabotage) Act it is an offence to be in possession of a copy of any newspaper banned under the Suppression of Communism Act. This section of the Act only comes into force six months after the Sabotage Act was gazetted. The Act was gazetted on June 27. Thus the ban on the pOSSeSe sion of papers comes into effect ON DECEMBER 27, 1962_IN ONE WEEKTS TIME. READERS are that in General Get Rid of Your GUARDIANS, ADVANCES and NEW AGES NEWSPAPER'BAN COMES INTO FORCE ON DECEMBER 27 were many Special Branch members around the place. Mr. Hans Abraham, the Commissioner General, issued a stern warning that there were elements who wanted to demolish the work of the TTA, and Mr. C. B. Young referred to a certain group who wanted a multi-racial Constitution. -

Chief Sabata said that the Tembu felt that the provisions of the Bill would mean that the Transkei would isolate itself and become a pigsty. He had received letters from Tembus all over the Republic asking him whether he was aware of this possible isolation. The Government, in attempts to remove the Africans from the Western Province to the Transkei, had been telling them that they would be going to theiFhomeland where there was freedom. But where was that freedom? tilt is clear that we will be given only a portion of our birthright and that portion is infinitesimal. Who are more in numbers-the Whites or the Blacks? thhites of the Transkei have expressed their unwillingness to be under a proposed Transkeian Government because they see that they have a very small portion in which they will be confined. The Tembu want freedom for all Africans in the Republic." He said he did not want members of the TTA to go through The ban does not apply to overseas publications banned from importation into the country under the Customs Act, but only to publications banned in terms of the Suppression of Communism Act. So far only three publications have been banned under the Suppression Actethe Guardian, Advance and New Age.

After December 27 it will lie an offence, punishable by up to three years imprisonment, to be in possession of a single copy of any of these papers.

.the Bill in the same confusion as with the discussion in Mav on the report of the TTA and the Come mittee on self-government.

MANDATE

The chairman, Mr. C. W. Mo-nakili, said that at this stage he could only allow discussion on the Bill as it was presented section by section. When the Bill was dealt with amendments could be made and discussion take place. Chief Sabata asked for permission to voice the mandate given him by the Tembu people.

Immediately Chief George Matanzima said that the discussion was leading to the same confusion as at the last session. The position had been made clear to Chief Sabata that he could voice the mandate he had received from the people when the appropriate section in the Bill came up. Chief Sabata proposed that before the whole Bill was discussed the chairman should first hear the views of the people. This was refused by the chairman. UNEXPECTED

The Session was marked by unexpected opposition to many asa pects of the Bill and this opposition would have been much stronger had it not been decided on at the last session. Chief Kaiser Matanzima fought for the provisions of the Bill mainly arguing that matters being raised at this session had already been decided on. CROWDS FOLLOW SABATA

While the debate was in session Chief Sabata left the TTA and spoke to a crowd of people in the street outside. Later he drove into the tOWn followed by a crowd of up to 400 Africans.

At times he would stop and speak to them. The procession continued down the main street. the crowd singing and dancing jubilantly and the chief would at times join the dancing. Passing cars had to stop. Speed cops Were overwhelmed as the crowd would not heed their instructions. Special Branch detectives tried to stop the procession but Sabata called on the people to continue. SLOW PROGRESS

The TTA debates continued but progress was slow. When the TTA decided on the composition of their Cabinet and came to the section providing for TTA meme hers. Mr. L. N. Majeke of EmbOe land, an eloquent debater, took them by surprise by proposing that members of the Assembly be all elected by the people. The motion was lost by a very narrow majority.

Chief Kaiser Matanzima said that the traditions of the' Bantu were that chiefs were the legal leaders of their people and should be represented. COLLAPSE

Charges Withdrawn Against Most Accused PORT ELIZABETH.

THE vast majority of the sabotage cases here have collapsed and the accused have been discharged with no evidence led or appearance in court of State witnesses against them.

Originally the number of accused swelled to 42. With the exception of the Sinkan-kanka-Du Preez case (reported in ttSparkti last week), all but one have now been discharged. Richard Tokwc, a married man with three children, was due to appear in court on December 18. ARRESTED 4 TIMES

James Kati. a ttSparkll employee, was arrested four times within the space of 19 days. He alleges that he was assaulted while he was in custody. One night Kati was driven by the police to a place near the Baakens Bridge police station. The police did not enter the station, but went across the street to a bar.

A group of white women came out of the bar jeering and shouting ttCastroi, (Katils nickname). They attempted to lift and over turn the van.

From here the police drove into the dense bush near Walmer where they ordered Kati out of the van. They clutched their guns and told him to go home. He refused. saying he was still under arrest. They told him to beat it and go away. He rolled up his shirt sleeves and told them he would light to the death. They then drove to the Walmer police station where Sinkankanka was brought out to the van but Inter sent in again. (The police had alleged that Sinkankankn and Kilti had once had :1 meeting together with other persons.) _ Finally Kati was driven to the New Brighton police station where he arrived at about midnight. INTERROGATIONS

During the course of this swoop on alleged saboteurs many irregularities and inconsistencies occurred. Elliot Nonkonyana was whisked from the North-end Prison on the eve of the day he was 'due to appear, and brought before the same magistrate who had ree manded him. He was told that the State had no case against him and he was therefore released. The police took him

Berryis Corner police to the station where they interrogated him further in the same matter in cone nection with which he had been released, and offered him money "And what do you think will happen if there are any American reconnaissance aircraft abouttlt if he would turn informer. Having already 'experienced police brutality he neither refused nor accepted the offer. In the attempt to track down sztboteurs the police have 11qu big money offers left and right. Despite this. further attempts at derailment and wire-cutting have been reported. Women have been flogged, children kicked, a mimltter Of religion interrogated, a mental patient welohn Hlolimpi Soyeye-twice detained, suspected of being re-.xpmtsible for sabotage acts, in what the police and authorities (Inscribed as ltintcnsified investigations" of sabotage acts that occurred in the Eastern Cape recently. PEOPLES CHARGES What is most appalling is to find that those people who have laid charges against the pofiee have either been ignored or have had their cases delayed. One such case is that of Mrs. Nobanzn 'Fuyani. who has already identdied the police who assaulted her. Yet so far no trial has been instituted. Bail was often refused by the State owing to the unatttre and circumstances" under Wthh the accused were charged. Political leaders of the people were detained for not less than two days each while some spent weeks in prison. The police once used a pair of pliers in extracting a tooth from one suspect whom they were questioning. Josiah Mayoli was beaten, kicked and knocked unconscxous for denying that he had anything to do with the African National Congress which the police alleged was still in existence underground and responsible for sabotage acts committed recently. Polish-Yugoslav Friendship Friendly co-operation between Poland and Yugoslavia directed towards the common goals of socialism and peace. is developing in :1 positive and mutually advantageous way. said a communique issued in Belgrade recently after talks between the Polish and Yugoslav Foreign Ministers.

. To provide 700 million people with 1.500 calories in grain

By these measures China has av01ded starvation and famine in the face of terrible misfortune. A significant feature of the Chinese achievement was that it was accomplished without any foreign aid or gifts of surplus foodstuffs. Though the fare has at times been meagre, China has demonstrated that even in times of terrible natural calamities, she can feed her vast population. For Ihe first time in her history China can claim to have substantially solved 1th food problem. had come for lunch. The boss was furious and threatened to sack not only the two men but also the whole batch of 12 workers.
The workers resumed their work. but the boss told them to quit his premises. The workers
working as usual.
The hose then called in the police. ka came to an abrupt
