

THE Sunday Times's revelations of the Broederbond's - grip have emphasised the fact that since 1 this coun

Everything else, including the interests of individuals of all walks of life, has been subordinated to this aim.

curious feature of the Proposed new South African Constitution leads one to suspect that Broederbonders may even have a sense of humour,

With the creation of coloured and Indian parliaments, and given the existing parliaments for blacks, the English South African is destined to bushmen the distinction of having no parliament to speak for him. 5

Zulus would not accept a parliament dominated by Xhosa nationalists as validly

Speaking for them. There is no reason why English South Africans should be under-represented on parliament. -

Let a petition be organised to seek such a parliament. I am sure a million English-speaking voters, tired of Nationalist domination and condescension, would sign it, ditions trampled on and its language scorned and bastarised.

Its sons and daughters have emigrated from the country which they are made to feel is no longer theirs, :

Some of its sons and daughters, tired of Government Scorn, have been seduced into extremism, leading often to exile or jail, :

English South Africans are as much a group as the coloureds,

for an English parliament.

For 30 years Broederbond arrogance has been borne with that patience which is very much an English characteristic.

The time has now come to say, enough is enough, enough

Enough of English education controlled by Broederbonders; enough books censored by Broederbonders; enough of the changing of place names, military ranks and so on into Afrikaans, enough of Government

Let us say to the Government: You and your Broederbond parliament do not speak for English South Africa, â\200\224 ENGLISH SPEAKER, Cape Town.
