fANC, PAC

accused of

= - B\

|ganging up

By JOE MDHLELA)

THE ANC and PAC are out of touch with their followersâ\200\231 thinking by insisting on a negotiated settlement with the Government. .

Former executive committee member of the Pan Africanist Studentsâ\200\231 Organisation, Mr Thabiso Raditaba, said this during the Media Workersâ\200\231 Association of South Africaâ\200\231s Southern Transvaal regional congress in Johannesburg yesterday.

Raditaba also accused the organisations of ganging up on the Azanian Peoples Organisation.

He said the ANC and PAC were uncomfortable with Azapo because of its â\200\230â\200\230unwillingness to collaborateâ\200\231â\200\231.

â\200\234â\200\234That explains their ganging up against Azapo which was expelled from the Patriotic Front conference three | weeks ago,â\200\231â\200\231 Raditaba said.

He said that Azapo was right in rejecting the idea of â\200\234*suppingâ\200\235â\200\231 with whites and homeland leaders in the PF conference. â\200\230

He said both organistaions referred to homeland leaders like Oupa Gqozo and Bantu Holomisa as patriots.

â\200\234â\200\234There is nothing patriotic about these leaders. They have been discredited for collaborating with the system of apartheid,â\200\231â\200\235 he said.

The regional executive office bearers were returned unopposed, headed by chairman Mr Tseliso Raditaba. | Mr Joe Mdhlela was elected vice-chairman. â\200\230

JAY Naidoo has ousted such formidable contenders as Winnie Mandela and Desmond Tutu as the person that many Afrikaans newspaper commentators love to hate.

A columnist in BEELD said that Winnie and Archbishop Tutu and – Allan Boesak and Trevor Huddleston could all breathe easier now because there was a new Enemy Number One – Jayaseelan Naidoo, the architect of last week's two-day stayaway.

The columnist said Mr Naidoo had brought tension and confrontation at a time which cried out for reconciliation. He was a blackmailer instead of a negotiator. He had damaged the economy. And he casually dismissed the deaths which took place during the stayaway.

In an editorial, BEELD said Mr Naidoo must forget about his own ambitions and start seeing to the genuine interests of the workers instead.

Then perhaps he will realise his claims that the strike was a success

because there was no intimidation are wrong.

In the climate of violence which people like him and the ANC have engendered in the black townships, they don't need to intimidate anyone. The fear of becoming yet another one of the thousands of people who have died is enough to keep people at home.

In sharp contrast, Max du Preez, the iconoclastic editor of VRYE WEEKBLAD, said that although quite a few people had obviously stayed at home just in case there might be intimidation, this was by no means the main factor in keeping people away from work.

He said the lesson to be learned from the strike action was that the Government and other negotiators dare not walk over the black masses again and take decisions in their name, Confrontation and pain would continue as long as the rulers and the white establishment believed the social status quo could be quietly maintained after apartheid.

The editor was scathing about the â\200\234sudden sympathyâ\200\235 expressed by many whites about the lot of the black died in the stayaway. = !

He said: â\200\234I still remember how the

Asked whether things had gone wrong in the bedroom, she giggled and said: "I can't answer that question."

Oom Peet is reported to have had the electricity cut off from their love nest, leaving Charmaine to spend a night without lights or power.

Charmaine, in retaliation, says she has no intention of returning the rings, worth about R4 000. ; .

JOHANNESBURG: New York mayor
David Dinkins has not met any organisation or party other than the ANC since his arrival in the country on Tuesday. ;

Mr Dinkins, on a five-day visit to South Africa as a guest of the ANC,
has had briefings by a number of pro-

ANC organisations, but has yet to meet

representatives of -other organisations
on either the left or the right.

A meeting he had scheduled with Constitutional Development Minister and Acting President Gerrit Viljoen at the Union Building in Pretoria on Wednesday did not take place.

On the third day of his visit yester-
'| day Mr Dinkins was taken on a tour of
Phola

Park where he was briefed by cials. In the afternoon he paid Nobel Prize laureate Nadine Gordimer a courtesy visit at her Parktown West

home. E

Ms Gordimer, winner of this yearâ\200\231s

'Nobel Prize for Literature, is also an

ANC member.

At Phola Park yesterday Mr Dinkins pledged to focus world attention on black South Africansâ\200\231 living conditions,
which he denounced as immoral.

The New York mayor, accompanied by about 35 aides and representatives of various US newspapers and television stations, will visit Cape Town
today.

His itinerary did not indicate any appointments for the day.
