~ â\200\234The" African National Congress,
the main anti-apartheid - group â\200\234in.

- South Africa, opened an office here ~yesterday to facilitate contact with ' the United States as the prospects for negotiations with the" white' .

South African government increase,

. according to a senior ANC official,â\200\235 . â\200\234I think obviously, clearly there .

i with the U.S. administration,â\200\235 said

Thabo Mbeki, director of the ANCâ\200\231s international department and one of its rising young political figures. -

In an interview with reporters

~and .editors of â\200\234The - Washington

Post, Mbeki laid out his view of

.. forthcoming political maneuvers by _ â\200\230both the ANC and South African . President Frederik de Klerk as the two sides move toward negotiations. s

" "He predicted â\200\234de Klerk will release ANC leader Nelson Mandela, legalize black ' political activity, scrap â\200\234elementsâ\200\235 of the present state of emergency and then try to ing in the present apartheid system. - :

*Co-opting :the ANC would allow de Klerk to defend the central objective of a political system based on the notion of groups based on ethnic and racial factors, Mbeki said :

" The ANC will counter by seeking to build a broad-based alliance with the African National Congress, the Apartheid Party and the Inkatha Freedom Party on Eighth Street SE,

Ay A

nist Party inside the ANC, were still 4 nonracial democratic coalition that will seek to win over more and - more whites belonging to the ruling white National Party and eventually by sheer force of numbers pressure

. de Klerk into abandoning his group-
-based approach, Mbeki said.

He took sharp issue with the prevailing view in Congress and the Bush administration that to permit de Klerk to carry out his promised reforms, no new sanctions or pressures should be applied on South Africa to scrap its apartheid System. v :

If you say that [give him a

" chance], you're saying give him
.. time in order to consolidate apartheid," Mbeki said,

Mbeki also took issue with As-

" sistant Secretary of State Herman

J. Cohen, saying that Cohen's prediction to Congress last month that de Klerk will have likely scrapped most of South Africa's apartheid .

legislation by the end of the next " session of Parliament in June was a « false expectation. »

It's not going to happen because
