The Draft Bill on the Independent Electoral Commission was then adopted by general consensus.

It was noted that the AVU reserved its position with regard to all the references in the Draft Bill to the Electoral Act as well as the Constitution and the powers, duties and functions this Commission will incur due to that legislation.

It was noted that the Explanatory Memorandum as adopted by the Negotiating Council on 30 April 1993 clearly differentiated between agreement on the one hand and implementation on the other. It was further noted that participants should use the Explanatory Memorandum as a constant point of reference.

It was noted that the Planning Committee was currently looking into the question of the implementation of all the legislation under consideration in the Multi-Party Negotiating Process and one of the issues that had arisen is the wording to be used for the last section of each of the Bills is concerned. The Explanatory Memorandum would be used as a basis for any suggested draft.

The Technical Committee was thanked for its work completed. The ad-hoc committee and the task group was thanked for

It was agreed to accept the clause as formulated.

It was noted that the Bophuthatswana Government had made a submission to the Technical Committee setting out the position of the Bophuthatswana Government with regard to Radio 702. This did not influence the acceptance of the clause.

The meeting then proceeded to formally adopt the Draft Bill clause by clause. During this process the following was noted:

It was noted that there may possibly be an addition to the definition of "Transitional Executive Council" at a later stage, but this did not affect its formal acceptance.

Clause 5 (1) (b) refers: It was agreed by sufficient consensus to amend the word "ten" to read "five". The AVU noted its opposition to this decision.

Clause 35 refers: It was agreed to add to this clause the following sub-clause:

"(2) This Act shall be binding upon the State President in so far as he shall be obliged to act in accordance with the advice of the Transitional Council wherever so provided for in this Act".

The complete Draft Bill was then put forward to the meeting for its formal adoption. The Draft Bill was agreed upon by general consensus.

6.2:11 The Technical Committee was thanked for its work completed.

The meeting adjourned for lunch at 12h40.

The Draft Bill on the Independent Electoral Commission was then adopted by general consensus.

It was noted that the AVU reserved its position with regard to all the references in the Draft Bill to the Electoral Act as well as the Constitution and the powers, duties and functions this Commission will incur due to that legislation.

It was noted that the Explanatory Memorandum as adopted by the Negotiating Council on 30 April 1993 clearly differentiated between agreement on the one hand and implementation on the other. It was further noted that participants should use the Explanatory Memorandum as a constant point of reference.

It was noted that the Planning Committee was currently looking into the question of the implementation of all the legislation under consideration in the Multi-Party Negotiating Process and one of the issues that had arisen is the wording to be used for the last section of each of the Bills is concerned. The Explanatory Memorandum would be used as a basis for any suggested draft.

The Technical Committee was thanked for its work completed. The ad-hoc committee and the task group was thanked for
