Samragi:

we have spoken at some length about our achievements during 1978 at the 336th session to illustrate the progress of the
that the year that has gone by was marked by further advances in our struggle, laying the basis for a new offensive during this current year*

It should be clear that these advances reorganised the general
weakening of international imperialism and the growth of the forces that are firmly on the side of the oppressed and popular liberation his legs through the valleys and hills of our motherland.

This time,

we must not allow the enemy to regroup as happened at Isandhlwana with our attack him on all fronts and at all times and not give him
time to rest,

That way we shall surely defeat him as we did in 1913:

equal pay, equal marking conditions and Equal training facilities for all the teachers in South Africa.
There isn't a single family in our country which is not interested in this question because it is a question which concerns the future generation of our nation, and which concerns every mother and father*

Therefore in regard to the lead of the teachers of Samatn, the whole gaggle must have mobilised all over the country to come together and demand that what we want is equal, democratic and compulsory education for all our children.

The struggle for this kind of education must not be confined to teachers and students only.

As we have said, the parents must be involved and individual organisations should involved.

The question is what actions to take to compel the Government to have a meeting with the representatives of the various organisations, the teachers' organisation, the students' organisation and the parents' organisation, whatever the people are who must be 93% together to decide what to do.
As for the future of our children, bearing in mind that it is only through united mass struggle that we can win our demands.
It is the hope of the young people who perished in 1976 and 1977 to make sure that they do not die in vain.
The broad-based militant campaign for a equal, democratic and

For, however, that is inadequate and that we should: anyway afford to pay for the B&W of the teachers' law wages and salaries.
We cannot afford to allow this situation to continue.

The demand we must put forward is that it is the duty of the state to house the people.
