Counter Mass

NPA Has Contingency Plan To

Action

PIETERMARITZBURG July 29 Sam

Contingency plans have been introduced by the Natal Provincial Administration in untimpution 0! mass acttons expected to begin on Monday, SABC radio news reports.

NPA MEC for health services and road traffic Peter Miller said the measures included the reductton of patient admissions in hospitals and the prevision of overnight accommodation and transport for workers.

Mr Miller said the health and ambulance scrvtcec. tn particular. were essential to every community and their disruption was unacceptable.

He regretted that workers who failed to report t'oeduty would lose their pay because of  ${\tt u}$  "no work. no pay" policy. He added that disciplinary action could also be taken.

Mr Miller welcomed African National Congress president Nelson Mandela's call for peaceful and vmlcnce-t'rce demonstrauons.

Churches Drawing Lâ\200\230p Code Of Conduct For Campaign  $^\prime$

JOHANNESBURG July 29 Sapa

Church leaders are drawing up a code of conduct after agreement was reached in meetings with Iabom und busmess this week that the church should intervene in the mass action campaign.

The leaders said in a joint statement on Wednesday LhC code of conduct, which had been disCussed w ith mlCrCSlCd pames. was tn an advanced stage and i¬\201nal agreement should be reached "very soon".

They said they had discussed concerns with the Afric $\tilde{A} \odot n$  National Congress that mass action could lead to violence. and asked for clarity from the ANC On the constitutional issues involved in the political deadlock.

"We were informed that it was the wish of the ANC to take part iti negotiations but that the continuing vtolcnce and the constitutional deadlock had caused the withdrawal and led to the choice of mass action.

The statement quotedâ\200\230in\201NC president Nelson Mandela as saying: "We are not keen to adopt mass aetion, we are compelled to it."

The church leaders statement satd: "We listened to both sides curctully and sought to identify the actual constitutional deadlock, We believe the difference lies in that the government would like Codesa (Convention for a Democratic South Africa) to set the fundamentals of the new constitution which would be dtttâ\200\230tcult to change subsequently whereas the ANC wishes Codesu to agree only on the principles of a new constitution and the rules and regulations that will govern the interim process."

The church leaders said that following the meetings and their evaluations, they believed there was urgent need for the government in general and State President F W de Klerk in particular to take bold action to avert what could be a national disaster.

"It is the gmemment that can resolve the situation and resolve it now

"We anticipate further contacts to share our continuing concern and what we perceive to be the kind of action required." they tddett т.

Referring to the constitution. they said there was need for the government to declare that the constitution for a future government should be produced by a sovereign body elected on the basrs of universal suffrage.

"This too we believe would help break the deadlock and assiSt toward resumed negotiations." they said.

The church leaders include Dutch Reformed Church assessor Johan Heyns. Alexandra cleric Beyers Naude. South African Councu of Churches secretary-general Frank Chikane, Anglican Bishop Duncan Buchanan. and future Catholic.)l Archbishop of Durban. Wilfred Napier. t L'nion Calls On Members To Minimise Disruption' JOHANNESBURG July 29 Sapa

The SA Association of Municipal Employees (Saame) has called on its 50000 members to minimise possible disruption caused by the proposed mass action of the ANC/Cosatu alliance.

SABC radio news reported Saame president Hans Deetlefs as saying on Wednesday that although the union did not-encourage its members to do the work of other municipal employees who downed tools, it was in the national interest to render essential services. -

He said. hoWever, such services would be rendered voluntarily utter agreement had been reached between Saame and employers on fair renumeration.

Mr Deetlefs emphasised Saame would not have any part in actions that were politically inspired and were aimed at disrupting good order.
