

",3

61 SEP '92 28:14 811 834 1819

A BRITISH newspaper yesterday claimed that State President De Klerk would announce a general election for next year in which all South Africans would take part.

The London Sunday Times reported that legislation empowering Mr De Klerk to call the election would be passed during the special short parliamentary session in October.

The round of NP annual party congresses begins this week with the OFS National Party in Bloemfontein (tomorrow to Thursday). The (mt of live conferences to be held in September. The short session of Parliament set for about two weeks from October 12. must include the holding at provincial congresses during one month. ; instead of being spread out over the usual three-month period at this time of the year.

Unlike previous years, Mr De Klerk, will not be holding public meetings to officially hes.

" (W WW;

Election next year?

FROM PAGE 1
the delegate! will he asked to discuss the matter. with parliament on the measure in which NP proposals have been deleted. Another of the motions requests the government not to withdraw the principle on which the party's motto "M which We" moved at the year's parliamentary session. The session will be held in the new Parliament where the opposition is represented and the new government with its members be elected in the meeting.

Points of general discussion will be down to the free State congress include:

0 A request that the death penalty be retained;

0 The financial implications involved for parents with children It Model C schools end
the possibility of making
such contributions tax deductible'.

0 The possibility of private enterprise being incorporated into the 0 Concern over the

high rates of unemployment and crime -
Sept.

P. 23/29