Dear Mr. Fredericks,

Re: Application for Admission to B Bibl (Library Science) Degree from six
ANC Students presently in Tanzania

In my letter of 27 November I explained that the Tanzanian National Library Assistants Certificate (NLAC) Course was equivalent to the South African standard 10. The letter was accompanied by a syllabus of the NLAC Course and the entry requirements for the course.

Our students have recently completed their course and the results have just been released. I have enclosed a copy of the results with the names of our students underlined. You will notice that all six students were among the top ten in the class: two received distinctions, two received merits and the other two passed. I am confident that all the students will be able to cope with university level studies. All six have worked in the library of the Solomon Mahlangu Freedom College under my supervision and I have been very impressed with both their abilities and their attitude towards their work.

Yours sincerely

Sinikka Sipilä, M. Soc. Sci. (Library Science)
Head of the Library
