VIDEO WORKSHOP OPTION

Many of you have expressed interest in learning more about video technology. As we have heard from you over the past few weeks, several key themes have emerged. To respond to those interests, the Foundation has contracted with Ascher Segall at the Center for Educational Development in Health (CEDH) at Boston University to organize two workshops. You will be hearing more from CEDH later, but I wanted to take this opportunity to inform you of the scheduled workshops. Both workshops will take place at the APPALSHOP Center in Whitesburg, Kentucky. These are optional activities; the expenses for the travel, hotel, meals and the workshops will be paid by the Foundation.

Workshop #1: Monday and Tuesday, May 6 and 7, 1991

"Using Video in Community Development"

Presentor: Herb E. Smith, Appalshop filmmaker

Awareness of video's potential uses and applications for community development.

!!!NEW OPTION!!!

Workshop #2: Wednesday and Thursday, May 8 and 9, 1991

"Getting Started"

Presentor: Varda Burns, Video Consultant

An Introduction to Videography for Beginners, to orient them to using video equipment and understanding the medium. The participants who are interested will have the opportunity to develop a plan of action.

A number of you have expressed interest in Workshop #1. We wanted you to know about the TWO workshops available to you. You do NOT have to make a decision or let us know of your interest until you arrive in Battle Creek. We can make the final arrangements including the travel, hotel and workshop reservations when you arrive in Battle Creek.
