Dear Dr. Miles:

This letter is in response to your 14 July inquiry concerning works by the artist George Mgudlandlu that might be in the collection of Hampton University Museum. Hampton University Museum was the recipient of some works from the Harmon Foundation's collection of modern African art. However, according to our records, we have no works attributed to this artist in our permanent collection.

Works from the Harmon Foundation's collection were on loan to Hampton in the 1960s as part of the Harmon Foundation's extensive travelling exhibition. Perhaps the inventory records that you reviewed referred to one of the earlier exhibitions. We do not have loan records in our files that list the individual works of art that formed these exhibitions.

We wish you much success with your retrospective exhibition of Gladys Mgudlandlu. If we can be of further assistance, do not hesitate to contact the museum.
