where practicable, the proof plates be processed from the negative material supplied. Progressives should follow the conventional pattern and include assistive guides such as solid colour bars printed across the direction of inking and colour guides. They should be inked in the same direction as are pages on the METRO PRESS i.e. TABLOID PAGES (two-up) FROM RIGHT TO LEFT. Ink densities on proofs and progressives with respect to unprinted stock as zero should not be greater than the following: Yellow 0,70, Cyan 0,90, Magenta 0,90, Black 1,10. Printing sequence is Yellow, Cyan, Magenta, Black. NATAL EDITION: Full Colour: Right reading positives emulsion side down. Width of DPS 130,5 ems (55 cm) Black and White material must be supplied in bromide form. Full pages may be supplied in negative form.

MATERIAL REQUIREMENTS:

2.0 COLOUR SEPARATION:
2.1 All our newspapers use negative working plates so that all advertisments should be in the form of wrong-reading negatives. Note that a negative is described as "wrong-reading" when viewed with the emulsion side lacing the observer.

lacing the observer.

2.2 Negatives should be second generation "hard dot" material with a density of not less than 3.0 in the solid black areas. Only "final" negatives not showing evidence of further retouching will meet this requirement.

2.3 Register marks in the form of centre lines on both axes should be provided on these negatives. The line thickness of the register marks should not exceed the width of a 50% dot of the screen ruling employed. For a 40 lines/cm screen the width of the register lines will thus be less than 0.015 mm.

2.4 Negatives should be dimensionally stable with a polyester type film base of at least 0,1 mm thickness to preserve close register.

2.5 A screen ruling of 34 lines/cm is preferred but any screen ruling up to 40 lines/cm will be acceptable. Please note, however, that a coarser screen ruling gives a better tone reproduction in the shadow areas and a lower dot gain in the shadow and middle tone areas. An elliptical dot screen will be advantageous in smoothing out the tone reproduction in the 50% dot area.

reproduction in the 50% oot area.

2.6 Conventional screen angles of yellow 90°, cyan 15°, magenta 75°, and black 45° should be used. If, however, the dominent colour in the subject appears to favour a different set of screen angles, this should be discussed with the newspaper concerned who will then indicate their references in appealing instances. preferences in specific instances.

2.7 All separations should be colour corrected for the hues of standard offset litho newspaper inks as specified in ISO 2844-745. (This is equivalent to the BS 4666, DIN 16539 and CEI 13-67 standard for four colour inks.)

2.8 Achromatic reproduction/Grey Component Replacement is recommended. If this technique is not available, conventional undercolour removal will greatly assist the tonal reproduction in neutral shadow areas. The degree of grey component replacement or undercolour removal should be adjusted so that the sum of the dot percentages on all four printers does not exceed 240% in the darkest neutral shadows. GCR scanners calibrated in density will acheive this requirement at an 80% setting while the equivalent for scanners calibrated in dot percentage will be a 50% setting.

2.8 A near full range colour corrected black printer of adequate contrast is required for "Achromatic" reproduction. With the UCR alternative, the black printer should be adjusted to compensate for the high degree of undercolour removal required by reinforcing detail in shadow and dark colour areas while avoiding excessive greying of purer colours. It should start with low gradation and minimum sized dots in the extreme highlight areas and should start with low gradation and minimum sized dots in the lighter tones to avoid a harsh break in these tonal areas. Its gradation should then increase rapidly towards the shadows.

2.9 The overall gradation of the newspaper reproduction process is such that a (Murray-Davies) dot gain of some 30% can be expected at the 50% tone level. In other words, a 50% tone on the negative will result in a measure 80% tone level on the print. The full gradation curve is as follows:

Negative Tone	Negative Print Tone
Level %	Density	Level 9
15	0,83	3
30	0.52	5

Tone	Negative Print Tone
Level %	Desity	Level %
45	0,34	76
60	0,22	88
75	0,12	95
90	0,04	99
2 11 The de	nt values of the last printable

detail at the extremes of the screen range should fall within the following limits for a 34 lines/cm screen:

	Negative Dot size	Negative Denisty
Highlight	97%	1,50
Shadow	7,5%	0,035
Reyand these do	t percentages the	autrama biabliable

Beyond these dot percentages, the extreme highlights carrying no important detail could drop out and the most intensely coloured areas with no detail could go solid on individual printers. Smoothness in these transitions is sessential and must be achieved by correct separation and screening techniques and not by retouching. Film densities should be measured with a transmission densitometer, such as the Macbeth TD504 having an aperture width of at least 3 mm, after zeroing on clear film base.

2.11 With the inks currently in use, grey balance is achieved at the following % tone values on the negatives:

Cyan Frinter	Magenta Printer	Yellow Printer	Equivalent Neutral Density
100	74	77	0,93
80	60	63	0,84
60	46	50	0,72
40	27	32	0,52
20	13	15	0,28

2.13 All negatives should be clearly marked as being yellow, magenta, cyan or black printers and should also carry the name or mark of the repoduction house.

3.0 PROOFS

3.1 Two "run to" proofs, which reflect accurately the tonal values of the final negatives supplied, should accompany the material. These proofs will be used to adjust the inking during the printing run and should be signed by the Production House quality controller as conforming to these specifications. It is desirable for the "run to" proofs be accompanied by the complete sets of progressives since these are useful for quality checking.

3.2 All proofs must be pulled on standard locally produced 9awsprint. This newsprint can be obtained directly from the paper suppliers or cut to size at a nominal cost from individual newspapers.

3.3 The inks used for proofing must match the hues of the standard offset inks specified in BS 4666 and ISO 2846-75.

3.4 The proofing sequence should be yellow first, cyan, magenta and black last to correspond to the inking sequence on the production presses.

sequence on the production presses.

3.5 It is essential to include, on all proofs and progressives, solid colour bars, at least 7 mm wide, positioned across the direction on inking ahead of the image areas and extending over the whole width of the illustration. They will be used to check the density and evenness of inking across the direction of proofing.

3.6 It is advisable to include a recognised colour control strip on all proofs and progressives since this will allow the proofing operation to be assessed for colour balance, dot gain, slur and ink trapping. If the colour control strip does gain, slur and ink trapping. If the colour control strip does not incorporate suitable areas for checking contrast in terms of paragraph 3.8 it is essential that the solid colour bars specified in paragraph 3.5 should have adjacent 60% tint areas at least 7 mm in a ruling of 34 lines/cm.

3.7 The ink	densities, v	with respect	to unprinted	paper as

3.9 Non-ink/paper proofs from prepress proofing systems will generally not be acceptable unless the substrate colour matches that of standard newsprint (3.2) the pigments used match the standard offset inks (2.7) and the proofing systems characteristic curves conform with 2.10, proofing systems characteristic curves conform with 2.10, 2.12, 3.7 and 4.1.
4.0 PRINTING

4.1 Printing conditions on all production presses should be adjusted so that ink densities settle at the indicated values and always remain with 0,1 of the norm. At the standard ink densities, a 60% dot area on the negative should reproduce at the following density and equivalent printed dot percentages (Murray-Davies):

MATERIAL REQUIREMENTS: Negative working material is required. Every advertisement must be in the form of a wrong-reading negative. A screen ruling of 34 lines per centimetre is preferred. Screening in excess of 40 lines per centimetre could cause problems on newsprint.

Full Colour A screen of 34 lines/cm is preferred but all screens up to 40 lines/cm are acceptable. Under colour removal is essential as printing is wet on wet. The quality of your advertismeent depends on this. Each individual of your advertismeent depends on this. Each individual separation should have its colour clearly marked.

Proofs and Progressives: Proofs and progressives should be pulles on Mondi or Sappi Standard grade newsprint with C.T. offset inks which are bases on B.S. 4666. Two sets of progressives should be supplied. Progressives should be proofed inking from head to tail, except in cases where the advertisement is to appear in a tabloid publication where inking should be from side to side. A colour test strip is required on all proofs and progressives. progressives. For further technical information, refer to C.T. Litho For further technical information, refer to C.I. Litho Specification Schedule. Advertisements, in certain instances, can be printed across the gutter of the centrespread, to allow a maximum size equivalent to double page spread. The only additional charges the advertiser will bear are those for the production of suitable material through a commercial production house. EXECUTIVES: Ad. Manager: Malcolm Dean-Smith. MATERIAL REQUIREMENTS: B/W: Bromides

Spot Colour Wrong reading negatives.

FULL COLOUR Negative working plates are used and these require wrong reading negatives for processing. Wrong reading negatives are those seen as wrong reading. with the emulsion face up. Hard dot contact negatives should be supplied with a density of at least 3,0 in the solid areas. No retouching should have been attempted on the negatives supplied. All negatives should be clearly marked to indicate the colour, and register marks should appear on all four axes in the form of centre lines. The film supplied should be of polyester-type and of thickness 0,1

SCREEN RULING: The preferred screen ruling is 34 lines per cm up to 40 lines per cm, but wish to emphasise that press gain may reduce the effectiveness of such material. Screen rulings in excess of 40 lines per cm will not be accepted.

SCREEN ANGLES: Conventional screen angles are acceptable but it is recommended that the dominant colour should be at an angle of 45 degrees.

COLOUR SEPARATIONS: It is recommended that colour separations are corrected in terms of the standard inks used on Times Media Presses. T.N.P.C. Under-colour removal is considered essential and it is recommended that advertisers aim at a maximum density of 240-260 percent in the darkest areas. Suggested density reading in the UCR area are:

Cyan 0,13 (negative) 0,6 (positive) Yellow 0,18 (negative) 0,45 (positive) Magenta 0,22 (negative) 0,4 (positive). The suggested readings were taken using a MacBeth transmission densitometer with an aperture of 4 mm.

PROGRESSIVES: should be printed on standard 52 gsm newsprint and should be faithful to the negative material supplied. To assist colour fidelity it is suggested that, where practicable, the proof plates be processed from the negative material supplied. Progressives should follow a conventional pattern and include assistive guides such as solid colourbars printed across the direction of inking and colour guides. They should be inked in the same direction as are pages on the METRO PRESS i.e BROADSHEET PAGES (two-up) FROM BOTTOM TO TOP. Ink densities on proofs and progressives with respect to unprinted stock as zero should be not greater than the following: Yellow: 0,70; Cyan: 0,90; Magenta: 0,90; Black: 1,10. Printing sequence is Yellow, Cyan, Magenta, Black. EXECUTIVES: Editor: J. Jones. Sales & Marketing Manager: B.V. Wassenaar. CIRCULATION: 33 792 A.B.C. (Jan. - Jun. 1992)
