your guide to a 30-day explosion of culture in GREATER JOHANNESBURG

 welcome to ARTS ALIVE 1993!

Thanks to your overwhelming support, this year's Festival is bigger and more diverse than ever, with over 400 events happening in Greater Johannesburg.

ARTS ALIVE '93 has something for everyone: sizzling theatre, the best in classical, popular and traditional music, an exciting programme at the Nedbank Arts Alive Dance Factory Festival, and all kinds of visual arts from award-winning South African work to a colourful exhibition of Fante Flags from Ghana. And this year YOU can really participate! Perhaps you'll join a mural group to brighten up your community. Perhaps you'll write a poem about Jo'burg for our poetry project. Or you might sharpen up your creative skills in one of our many workshops - run by local artists and visitors to Johannesburg. ARTS ALIVE is a City of Johannesburg initiative which puts the spotlight on the many and diverse cultural activities going on in September. There is sure to be something in the month that everyone can enjoy. Many events are free - like Jazz on the Lake and Mbaqanga in the Park. And at the Electric Workshop - Johannesburg's new, most exciting entertainment venue open just for September's Arts Alive to focus on the City's development of the Cultural Precinct (see page 7) - prices are as low as we can make them. So here's your guide to an action-packed month! ARTS ALIVE '93 reflects the richness and energy of all Jo'burg's artists, wherever they may be. Most of all, it's YOUR Festival.

NEDBANK ARTS ALIVE AFRICAN SANCTUS AND MISSA LUBA

Presented by Nedbank and Arts Alive, this first performance of the Arts Alive Festival is a stirring production to be performed in an unusual setting. The SABC Choir and Chamber Choir are conducted by Richard Cock in this production of David Fanshawe's musical journey through Africa. Musical accompaniment includes the Alexandra drummers, percussion musicians and pianist Surendran Reddy. Renette Bouwer sings the extremely taxing soloist part. Fanshawe travelled through various countries in Africa, researching and collecting musical sounds, sounds typical to the area (he even uses a recording of rain and frogs in one section of the Sanctus). These recordings are blended with the choral and instrumental music, creating a fascinating masterpiece of African sounds. African Sanctus is presented with the Missa Luba, an elegant African mass arranged by Guido Haazen. Only two performances: WED 1 and THURS 2 SEPT at the Electric Workshop, Newtown Cultural Precinct (entrance opposite the Market Theatre parking area in Jeppe St, for secure, lit parking). Booking at Computicket /at the door. Book now - only limited seating available.

Tel: 714 5656

THE MARKET PRECINCT

For a real Festival buzz, the Precinct will present a mix of South African and international acts on an open-air stage, including those bands which will inspire listeners to get up and jive. As well as artists featured in the Main Theatre, a range of top bands and special events will be staged, including reed and vocal summit sessions. A special feature of the Precinct programme will be one appearance each day by the specially assembled Guinness Big Band directed by Victor Ntoni.

THE NEWTOWN GALLERY

This 200+ capacity venue will be fitted with seating, and used to present those South African acts with an original musical message: young bands, bands from Durban and the Cape which are not frequently seen in Johannesburg, and those presenting programmes of original compositions. The Gallery will also host a jazz and poetry session presented by the Congress of South African Writers.

KIPPIE'S

The city's best jazz bar will host small-group sessions, jazz and blues. A special feature of the Kippie's programme will be late-night jam sessions. Kippie's will stay open until 2 am each Festival day, with an open invitation to all participating artists to come and blow with the resident rhythm section. As aficionados of jazz festivals know, these are the sessions when anything musical can - and often does - happen.

THE YARD OF ALE

When you want to escape from the Mardi Gras air of the Precinct, the Yard of Ale's cool welcoming interior will offer cool, soft sounds from a resident rhythm section.

GRAMADOELAS

Torch songs from the ladies of song plus pianists and guitarists of note will serenade diners in this restaurant.

NEDBANK ARTS ALIVE DANCE FACTORY FESTIVAL

For Arts Alive the Dance Factory will be a-dancing with all kinds of dance brought to you by Nedbank and Arts Alive. The Factory, situated in the City Centre, will continue its regular classes on Wed and Thurs late afternoons (for September they will be open to the public), but a myriad of other dance will be profiled, involving local dancers and two exciting visitors to Johannesburg. The Tumbuka Dance Theatre Company from Zimbabwe, which caused such interest during their recent visit, returns to Johannesburg to give three performances and workshops. Germaine Acogny, dancer from central Africa currently resident in Germany, visits for the first time. And in between all the exciting performances by local companies and these visitors, there will be a ballroom evening, and a disco night - watch the press or telephone the Dance Factory if you're interested in taking part. And don't miss the Saturdays at the Dance Factory when Pedi, BaChopi and other musician/dancers (see music entries) come into the city as they never have before - and join with the arty Scridblers.....

writing/ reading/ books

WRITE A JO'BURG POEM

Arts Alive invites you to write an original poem - or poems - about Johannesburg, in any language or languages. A published selection of the poems is planned after the Festival. Send poems to: Arts Alive P O Box 1049 Johannesburg 2000.

TELL AN OLD STORY

Arts Alive is starting a writing and story documenting project which aims to develop from this Festival into a bigger programme. Over two days, 15 schools throughout Johannesburg collect stories from older people in their community and re-tell them in handmade books. The photocopied books will be on exhibition during the Festival and will travel to all the schools afterwards, as a loan library.

POEMS IN THE POST OFFICE

While waiting in a queue in some Post offices this September, you may spot the beginning of the Poems in Post Offices programme. Johannesburg's City Post Offices will display a selection of poetry from local writers - to celebrate their creativity and make their work known to a wider audience. Watch out for poems in other places in the City during Arts Alive - or add to the project by putting up some yourself!

WEEKLY MAIL AND GUARDIAN BOOK WEEK

The following sessions are some of the highlights of one of the main literary events for the year and should not be missed:

( Please see Weekly Mail and Guardian for full programme.) SUN 5 SEPT 5pm John Mortimer, internationally renowned novelist and playwright, will discuss 'Rumpole' and other characters with Dennis Davis. MON 6 SEPT 6pm Around Africa, Writers Speak will be chaired by Hugh Lewin and involve Shimmer Chinodya and John Eppel (Zimbabwe), Emmanuel Dongala (Congo) and Mia Couto (Mozambique). WED 8 SEPT 5.45pm Queer Perspectives: Gay and Lesbian Writers and the Word, chaired by Mark Gevisser. A special dance performance will be given by Jay Pather of Jazzart. THURS 9 SEPT 2.30 - 4pm Waverley Girls High School - The Johannesburg Children's Book Group invites the public to hear Marguerite Poland, Barrie Hough, Joan Rankin and Dianne Hofmeyer discuss books for young people. Market Theatre

Complex. Tickets at Computicket or at the door.
Tel: Eve Jammy, 403 7111.

WOMEN IN JANE AUSTEN

A lecture by Hilary Semple (Wits) on MON 6 SEPT at 2pm and 5.30pm. National Museum of Military History, Saxonwold.

SOUTH AFRICAN CHILDREN'S BOOKS PAST AND PRESENT

Lecture by Elwyn Jenkins (Vista) on MON 20 SEPT at 2pm and 5.30pm at the National Museum of Military History, Saxonwold.

READATHON

Eight million children around S.A. are expected to "read for peace" during national Readathon week.

The highlight of the Readathon is on FRI 10 SEPT when all schools are encouraged to set aside half-an-hour, between 10.30am and 11am, so that children may share in a celebration of books and reading. Event is organised by Read Education Trust. Readathon is an opportunity for performing songs and dramatisation based on books.

AIR FRANCE FILM FESTIVAL

See The Star Tonight on 10 Sept for the full programme. Over 25 films, largely drawn from this year's Cannes Film Festival. Some of the actors and directors will be on hand to introduce their films. Films include the Hilarious Time Travel (comedy with Catherine Deneuve and Daniel Autuil). Don't miss the ever popular Festival!

17 SEPT TO 5 OCT. Seven Arts Cinema, Norwood.

Tickets at Computicket / at the door.

WEEKLY MAIL AND GUARDIAN WEEKLY FILM FESTIVAL

This exciting film festival will cover a variety of events including workshops, master classes, panel discussions involving both local and international guests, dealing with contentious issues surrounding film.

Well-known international film directors attending the Film Festival include Haile Gerima, from Ethiopia, whose films include Bush Mama and Harvest (which has won several awards). Others include Louis Malle, known as a consistently innovative director, screenwriter and producer, and Swedish film maker, Suanne Osten. The Festival will screen Osten's first feature film, Speak Up! It's so dark (1982) which deals with an encounter between a Jewish psychiatrist and a Nazi skinhead. A selection of Malle's films which will feature at the Festival include Lacombe Lucien (1974), Murners of the Heart (1971), Atlantic City (1980) and Phantom India (1968). See the Weekly Mail/Guardian weekly for full programme.
