

15 OCT tea as:ss 811 834 1e19

/ 4.. . Q 0t P.7/13

& 51 main Street mMOXQWthP i3 t t Di'Ihi:t(t11t330-7000

J ohmbur Pu: 333-

13.0.301618 4 883.4609

Mmhalltown 2107 Telex: 42-1252

AFRICAN

NATIONAL CONGRESS

--_--_I____--_--

ANS Pteee ES'HTEQMOTJ'i fen Cittme 'Ptreetetem ete Meth'e

A&MTQBE tre Pertiemem. "'12't-tt i'CDeiteIefet WM:

State President F.W. de Kierkis speech at the resumption of the parliamentary session today. 12th October 1992. once again demonstrated his remarkable inability to rise to the occasion. Rather than seizing the opportunity to point the country's way out of the crisis his government has plunged us into. he used it instead to rehash the weH-known positions of the National Party, dressing them up as a consensus reached among the parties engaged in negotiations.

White not calling into question de Klerk's right, as leader of the National Party, to set out in clear terms the policies his party will pursue in negotiations. South Africa requires a statesmanlike relegation of narrow party political considerations.

The State President's indulgence of his McCarthyite proclivities was as undignified as it was puerile. That he and members of his party still entertain the vain hope of sewing tension in the ANC by targeting those of its members who are Communists betrays a naivete that is laughable.

Of greater significance is the elaboration of the National Party's objectives in the negotiation process. It remains our view that the National Party's eleventh hour conversion to the politics of federalism is a device to conceal their intention of clinging to power despite the verdict of a democratic election. Equally de Klerk's insistence on constitutionality would be more convincing if the NP's track record demonstrated any real commitment to a government based on laws. There are very few parties in South Africa that require instruction in democratic politics from the NP.

de Kierk is disingenuous in his attempt to sell the notion of "special increased majorities" as a universally accepted practice. In the first
.W

The People Shall Govern!

piece every previous South African constitution has been enacted by a simple majority; secondly, the principle of a spectral majority. conventionally a two thirds majority, is applicable to the amendment of constitution: and not their endorsement. Spokespersonb for the National Party have repeated this misrepresentation too often for it to be allowed to pass without comment.

The ANC is pleased to note the State President's commitment to remove the remaining obstacles to resumed negotiations. A good starting point would be to address the hundreds of repressive laws that deprive South Africans of the civil liberties other people take for granted. The need for either underground activities or armed struggle would never have arisen if the present government had not systematically whittled away the rights of the people. Peaceful political activity, whether undertaken by individuals or large collectives, as a basic civil liberty cannot be compromised. We shall continue to insist upon it.

State President de Klerk's address contained little that was new. At a time when South Africa cries out for bold and imaginative leadership he seems incapable of meeting the demands of the moment.

The ANC will make a more considered assessment, after further study of de Klerk's address, during the course of this week.

Issued by: The Department of Information and Publicity,
P.O. Box 61884. Marshalltown 2107, Johannesburg.

EL/EI'd 6TBI 1768 WE P8932 26; .LDO SI

510

D: 458314798

113 14 15-42 FROM: A 0-5 0 K o M 1

52- - .

31 Hemstreet

Jahannesburg

: , 'P.O.Box 61884

Marshalltown 2107

Tel: (011) 330-7000

Fax: 3339090

338-4509

Telex: 42-1252

AFRICAN

NATIONAL ON RESS

AM? Preee $?aremenr f9?) $311319 ?vemmm eke mem'e Aameec re Pmiiamem; Ql'h (Qeiiemi? 3%2.

bppqrtuni'y to point the country: we has'plung

of the National Party, dressing'them 11 parties eihgaged in negotiations.

the well-known positions

p as a consensus reached amdng the

. d members of his party still entertainE . A ' '

in the ANC by targetting those of its memb: . f ' a naivete that is iaughable.

. -

1

Of greater significance is.

' objectivee in the negotiati

Nationa! lPartfs eleventh the elaboration of the National Party's on process. It remains our view that the

92-18-14 iB:41 FROM: A C-5 0 K D M ID: 488314798

"an r NW?" P

qsd. r '-.u .3.3,

place every previous South African constitution has been enacted by a simple majority; secondly, the principle of a special majority, conventionally a two thirds majority, is applicable to the amendment of constitutions and not their endorsement. Spokespersons for the National Party have repeated this misrepresentation too often for it to be allowed to pass without comment.

The ANCE is pleased to note the State President's commitment to remove the remaining obstacles to resumed negotiations. A good starting point would be; to address the hundreds of repressive laws that deprive South Africans of the civil liberties other people take for granted. The need for either underground activities or armed struggle would never have arisen if the present government had not systematically hit away the rights of the people. Political activity; whether undertaken by individuals or large collectives, as a basic civil liberty cannot be compromised. We shall continue to insist upon it.

State President de Klerk's address contained little that was new. At a time when South Africa cries out for bold and imaginative leadership he seems incapable of meeting the demands of the moment.

5

The ANC will make a more considered assessment, after further study of de Klerk's address, during the course of this week.

Issued by: The Department of Information and Publicity,
PO. Box 61884, Marshalltown 2107, Johannesburg.

SID