HRC COMMENT :

This horrifying massacre confirms that there are elements within Inkatha and the Security Forces that have an interest in fuelling the violence and fulfilling their own prophecy that the ANC's programme of Mass Action will raise the political temperature. The lives of people are as nothing to them in this criminal game of destabilisation.

POLITICAL VIOLENCE

DEATHS AND INJURIES

- The death toll in May was 296, a drop for the second consecutive month, from 437 in March and 356 in April. Average daily death rate has declined from 14,1 in March to 11,9 in April to 9,5 in May. Deaths for the year 1992 now total 1433 which is 22% more than at this time last year.
- Injuries for the year total 2536, or 38% ahead of last year.

SOURCES

- Vigilante-related actions accounted for 228 deaths (or 77% of the total) and for 191 injuries (70% of the total).
- Security Forces were responsible for 20 deaths, the highest figure in over a year, and for 40 injuries. They themselves suffered an increasing level of casualties (15 dead and 26 injured in 36 attacks).
- Hit Squads claimed 3 victims this month, bringing the total for the year to 36.

AREA ANALYSIS

- The PWV area was again the hardest hit with 208 deaths (70% of the country total) and 192 injuries (also 70%). The Vaal took over as the major flashpoint (74 deaths), while Soweto (56), East Rand (46) and Alexandra (23) all showed significant decreases.
- Natal continued to maintain a remarkably constant level of deaths with 79 for May, or 27% of the country total. South Coast escalated with 41, Midlands stayed at 22, while Durban (9) and North Coast (5) abated substantially.
- Other areas accounted for 9 deaths, or 3% of the total.

VICTIMS

- Commuters (on trains, buses and taxis) again came in for attack during May. In 31 incidents there were 36 deaths and 41 injuries. Of these, train attacks accounted for 23 incidents, 23 deaths and 24 injuries; bringing the total for the year to 175 incidents, 168 deaths and 312 injuries.
- Women and children continue to be amongst the casualties. Women suffered 25 deaths (8,4% of the total) and 28 injuries (10%), while 19 children were injured.
- Where the affiliation or location of the victims within the community could be assessed from reports, (in about 30% of all cases), the following emerged in May :-
ANC supporters and township residents - 90% of the dead, 86% of the injured.
Inkatha supporters and hostel dwellers - 10% of the dead, 14% of the injured.
(Ratio of 9 to 1 and 6 to 1)

ATTACKERS

Where the affiliation of attackers (other than Security Forces) could be assessed from reports, the following emerged during May :-

- ANC supporters and township residents - 3 attacks resulting in 7 deaths and 4 injuries.
- Inkatha supporters and hostel dwellers - 21 attacks resulting in 21 deaths and 49 injuries.

FORMAL REPRESSION

REPRESSIVE LEGISLATION

At the end of May, Unrest Area declarations were in effect in 13 PWV townships, 58 townships in the Pietermaritzburg district and in the Richmond magisterial district.

DETENTION WITHOUT TRIAL

During May a further 30 persons were detained without trial, but only 1 person was still being held at the month end. Detentions for the year have now topped the 100 mark, without about half in Bophuthatswana and Ciskei, and almost half under the notorious Section 29 of the ISA.

DEATHS IN POLICE CUSTODY

Two deaths in police custody were recorded this month.

POLITICAL ARRESTS

Security Forces made 787 political arrests during May. Of these, 72% were identified with protest action around two issues :

- 416 Teachers and scholars demonstrating about educational issues.
- 154 women demonstrating about the presence and behaviour of security forces in the Pietermaritzburg area.

POLITICAL TRIALS AND IMPRISONMENT

HRC recorded 26 political trials as having been completed in May, involving 732 accused and resulting in 58 convictions, but only 1 person being imprisoned.

- As at the end of May, there were still 111 political trials in progress, involving 1640 accused.
- A feature of political trials this year has been the high number of persons per trial, about 16, compared with about 6 during 1991. This is an indication of the target focus moving away from individuals or small groups towards mass "illegal demonstrations".
- From information received during May, the HRC has been able to delete a number of names from its list of Political Prisoners. The list now comprises 353 names.

DEATH ROW

Three more death sentences were handed down in May. Current number on death row is 297, including 8 political.

BANNING OF GATHERINGS

During May the ANC was refused an application to hold a meetings in Bophuthatswana.

RESTRICTION OF MEDIA

The Weekly Mail was obliged to return to the self-censorship of the Emergency years in its reporting of revelations about covert structures and operation of the South African Police.

Comment on Statistics

Seventy-nine people were killed during May. This brings the total number of people killed in Natal to four hundred and sixty-one this year. The most adversely affected region was the South Coast which recorded more than double the number of deaths recorded in April. The lower South Coast, which has been relatively quiet during 1992 recorded twenty-four deaths. The figures for the Natal Midlands remain constant with twenty deaths being recorded this month and twenty-four last month. The figures for both the North Coast and Durban declined in comparison to April's figures for those areas..

Hit Squads

Between January 1990 and April 1992, HRC recorded a total of one hundred and nineteen political assassinations. During this twenty-eight month period, over five times as many such murders occurred as during the State of Emergency years.

Over one hundred of the victims are clearly identifiable as belonging to the anti-apartheid camp- either as officials, members, associates, friends or family members. At least forty-five of these assassinations took place in the Natal Region.

The escalation of political assassinations would seem to be in keeping with the use of the low intensity conflict to destabilise areas to frustrate the ability of organisations to mobilise politically.

Ambushes on Commuters

During the month of May there were eleven recorded incidents, resulting in seven deaths and twenty-five injuries, where commuters travelling on buses taxis were ambushed by armed men. Over the last few months there has been a frightening escalation of random attacks of this nature. Particularly concerning have been the frequent attacks that occurred on Imball taxis.

Gangsterism

At least five areas in the region have reported the development of gangster elements over the last five months. The main target of these gangs seems to have been anti-apartheid activists.

During May, two people were killed in Congo settlement in Inanda by a newly formed gang suspected of being linked to the notorious Amasinyora gang, of the section Kwabakhe. Community members allege that a local land owner and South African Police are encouraging the establishment of this gang in an attempt to break the existing rent boycott and undermine community unity.

People's Court

At least four people were killed and two others injured at a people's court in Gamalakhe. The victims were all refugees, were accused of crimes - including rapes - in the community. Members of the People's Court whipped the four to death. The other two injured people were taken to hospital by a monitor in the area. It is the responsibility of political structures in the area to ensure that such shocking and brutal behaviour ceases immediately.

Focus on Imball

In early May, residents of Imball embarked on a five day stayaway in protest against the role that the security forces play in the conflict in Imball. Residents demanded the withdrawal of 32 Battalion, the Internal Stability Unit of the South African Police, and the KwaZulu Police. Areas surrounding Imball join the stayaway and figures indicate that almost eighty percent of the residents participated in the stayaway. The residents of Imball also embarked on mass action, including pickets, marches, public meetings and sit-ins at government buildings and consulates. During this mass action over one hundred women were arrested and charged with trespassing and illegal gathering. On the May 8, Pietermaritzburg was declared an Unrest Area. Fifty seven areas were placed under curfew, and wide powers were given to the security forces.

Peace Accord

During May, the Goldstone Commission held preliminary hearings in connection with the violence in Imball, Umlazi and Esikhawoni. However, reports from the commission seem to indicate that they have decided against establishment of commissions in any of these areas.

In terms of the establishment of structures of the Accord there have been no further developments in the establishment of Local Dispute Resolution Committees in the region.

At a national level the Police Board has been established and has met to direct its operation. Agreements have also been reached nationally to bring private security firms into the accord, and that discussions on the code of conduct for SADF should be referred to CODESA.

SECURITY FORCE FOCUS

Handing Over of Police Stations

Despite the growing body of evidence detailing KwaZulu Police involvement in the violence in Natal there are strong indications that the South African Government is intent on extending the powers of KwaZulu. The government has commenced handing over areas such as Maputland to the KwaZulu Police and the KwaZulu Police are planning to build new police stations in some areas such as Folweni. There also seems to be a reluctance on the part of the government and KwaZulu to bring the SAP and KZP under a single command structure. All this seems to indicate that the South African Government has made a concrete decision to extend the life of the KwaZulu Police.

Focus on Imball

During May submissions were made to the Gelstone Commission regarding the role being played by the security forces in Imball. Concerns raised by the residents include:

- That the Security Forces are biased towards Inkatha and that they do not provide protection to residents especially where residents are ANC supporters. On April 30, the police had been notified about the shooting of taxis in Mlahlankhosi Road. The Police were asked to provide protection. No protection was provided and the next day a taxi was shot at. Since then there were at least three other shootings at taxis in Imball.

On April 7, members of the SAP escorted a large group of IFP supporters into Imball. The IFP supporters then proceeded to throw stones at houses, damage property and fire at residents. Members of the SAP failed to stop or arrest them.

- That the Security Forces have been involved in unlawful assaults on residents.

On May 9, the deputy editor of the Natal Witness laid charges of assault against members of the SADF 32 Battalion. Mr Kaba Mkhize was assaulted while trying to investigate claims that residents were being harassed by Security Force members.

Since the declaration of Imball as an unrest area there have been a number of complaints lodged by residents who claim to have been assaulted while travelling to or from their work.

- That residents are no longer prepared to go to the police because they fear they will be victimized.
- That members of the KZP are operating in Imball and have no jurisdiction to do so.

Concern was also expressed over the death in custody of Londi Ntombela and Mbuyi Zondi.

Focus on Inanda

On May 3, David Cebekhulu was assaulted by men wearing balaclavas. He wanted to know the whereabouts of Thunzi Dladla, the ANC chairman in the area. Mr Cebekhulu saw another group of men similarly dressed break open window of Mr Dladla's house and climb into the house through the window.

Mr Cebekhulu also overheard one Afrikaans speaking white person encouraging the residents to join the "police" in a plan to kill Mr Dladla.

The police have denied any involvement in these incidents but monitors have expressed growing concern over the role being played by the SAP in the area. Allegations made to monitors include:

- That the police are involved in the establishment of a gang in the area which has already been responsible for the deaths of two people in the community.
- That officials and members of the ANC have been assaulted on a number of occasions by members of the SAP.
- That police have refused to identify themselves to residents during raids on homes and that SAP members have been travelling in vehicles without registration plates.
- That the SADF have accompanied a notorious warlord Rogers Ngcobo during raids by Mr Ngcobo on homes in the area. During these raids items have been stolen from homes and furniture and goods damaged.
- That police have turned away residents who go to the Emtshebeni Police station when they have tried to lodge complaints.
- During an identity parade a witness pointed out a member of the CID as being one of the men involved in an assault on Mr Dladla. The CID member then threatened to kill the witness.

Focus on Umlazi

There continue to be reports of KwaZulu Police involvement in unlawful acts:

- On May 1, police were involved in the shooting of a youth who while he was waiting for a bus to take him to the May Day rally. After shooting him twice in the back, the member of the KZP then attempted to drive over the body with their vehicle and were only prevented from doing so by a group of women who circled the body.
- On May 17, one woman was killed and nine homes burnt by men dressed in KwaZulu Police uniform and wearing balaclavas. Residents allege that while they were attempting to put out burning houses they were fired on by members of the KwaZulu Police.

PRESS SUMMARY

ON

WEEKLY REPRESSION REPORT

FROM

10/06/92 TO 16/06/92

Sixty-three deaths and 77 injuries were recorded in the past week. The death toll increased from last week's figure of 54. However, injuries dropped from last week's figure of 85.

JUNE 16

While there has been some increase in the death toll, few deaths can be attributed to the ANC's Mass Action campaign launched on the 16 June. In fact, despite accusations by Nationalist government members that the ANC's campaign would lead to an increase in violence, monitoring of incidents recorded (especially where the affiliation of victims were known), clearly showed ANC supporters as being the main targets of attacks, rather than the perpetrators. Ten of the 22 deaths recorded on the 16 June, were identified as ANC supporters, 4 as township residents and the affiliation of the remaining 8 were unknown.

Security Forces were responsible for 1 death and 7 injuries, vigilante-related actions for 20 deaths and 12 injuries, and other political actions for 1 death.

Vigilante Related Actions accounted for 50 deaths and 60 injuries : an increase from last week's figures of 38 deaths and 36 injuries.

Deaths in the PWV were recorded in: Soweto (21), Vaal (15), East Rand (10), Johannesburg (2) and Alexandra (1).

Natal casualties dropped significantly from 10 deaths and 10 injuries last week to 1 death and 3 injuries this week. These figures are the lowest recorded in a seven-day period since the beginning of 1992.

Security Force Actions accounted for 3 deaths, 10 injuries and 290 arrests. The majority of the arrests were National Education, Health and Allied Workers Union (NEHAWU) members striking at a number of hospitals.

Hit Squad Actions accounted for 2 deaths, one in Natal, and the other in Transkei. This brings the total number of people killed in hit squad actions to 38.

The remaining deaths and injuries are categorised as uncertain and other political actions.
