Saawuâ\200\231s East London branch has.already announced the formation of an organisation for u ed workers.

However, Mr Kikine said that a union meeting at- the weekend had resolved to intensify efforts to form the unemwhen employers will not be able to break the union by hiring new workers because they will find they that the new workers they want to hire are also union members,â\200\235 he said. Saawu claims that employers â\200\224 particularly in the East London area â\200\224 are using the large pool of unemployed workers to thwart trade unionism by threatening to replace union activists with the unemployed. Mr Kikine said the union would mobilise unemplmd workers to pressure the ~ t to improve condition:
